Below is the link to the AP English Language and Composition Exam Review posted by College Board. Hopefully some of you tuned in for the live feed yesterday. I will be posting the videos here for you to watch and review. In addition, I will post a short assignment for your to complete during and after the video. If you can, print the assignment; if not, you can annotate in Word or Google Docs.

This lesson was very well done, and I believe if you watch and follow all the directions, you will be gaining valuable information to help you on the exam. I will continue to post the new lessons as they come in.
