Below is the link to the AP English Language and Composition Exam Review posted by College Board. Hopefully some of you will be able to watch the video for the live feed yesterday. I will be posting the videos here for you to watch and review. In addition, I will post the assignment for you to complete during and after the video. If you can, print the assignment; if not, you can annotate the Google Docs.

This lesson was very well done, and I believe if you watch and follow all the directions, you will be gaining valuable information that will help you on the exam. I will continue to post the new lessons as they come in.
